Headline:
Early rain then sunny spells and heavy, blustery showers.

Today:
A rather cloudy start with outbreaks of rain soon clearing northeast with sunny spells and heavy, blustery and perhaps thundery showers following, the showers most frequent across Argyll. Occasionally strong southwesterly winds. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Tonight:
The blustery showers become increasingly confined to Argyll and coastal parts through the evening and overnight, with eastern parts mostly dry with long clear spells. Minimum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Saturday:
Mainly dry, bright and breezy start but cloud and outbreaks of rain soon spread north, most persistent and heaviest across the east. Becoming drier with sunny spells through the afternoon. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Sunny or clear spells and occasionally heavy and blustery showers through Sunday and Monday with occasionally strong southwesterly winds. Lighter winds with sunny spells and lighter showers Tuesday.
